Letter from the President

I want to thank John & Robbie Yates for hosting the Club picnic at their home on June 7th. Everyone had a great time. Their house in Canton is beautiful with a large organic garden. I didn't get an exact count, but I think all the available chairs in the screened in porch were filled. The catered food was delicious. Debbie and I enjoyed meeting some members that we didn't know.

Plans for the Holiday party are taking shape. The tentative date is the afternoon of Sunday December 7. Phil DiTrollo has graciously agreed to host the party at his house. I should have more details next month.

I think everyone knows that our Club is hosting the JCNA International Jaguar

International Jaguar Registration

Submitted by Dave Kirkman

I know September seems like a long way off, and we all tend to procrastinate, but the IJF will be here before we know it...and it is time to register your Jaguar!

The July – August issue of the Jaguar Journal will soon be in your mailbox. When you open your copy you will find the IJF Registration Form on the back of the "Fly Sheet" along with the website to register: www.jcnaif.com. Please take the time to fill it out if you have not already registered.

I am personally encouraging all of our club members, who do not want their Jaguar judged, to come and participate in the Display

Class. Make a weekend of it and drive over on Friday and enjoy the evening Roar of the Jaguar "Tireside Chat" in the Savoy theatre featuring a presentation and discussion of the seven Jaguar race and rally cars the Savoy has curated. Display your car on Saturday and enjoy viewing the incredible Jaguars that are being judged and then join everyone for the Awards Banquet and Awards Presentations that evening. How about attending a "Fun Rally" or Scenic Drive on Sunday morning before heading home! Your club's IJF team has arranged for a fabulous weekend so be sure to come and participate!

IJF Monte Carlo "One Stop Light Fun Rally" GPS Usage Is Welcome

Submitted by Dave Kirkman

So, what is a Monte Carlo Rally? Typically, it is a rally where both the start and end locations are given along with a complete set of directions and a total arrival time but the entrants can choose any route to get to the destination. Our "One Stop Light Fun Rally" will be a little different as the start and finish are both at the Savoy Automobile Museum. The route will take you along the lightly traveled back country roads of rural northwest Georgia. So how will the winners be determined?

Festival at the Savoy Automobile Museum in Cartersville, GA on September 25-28. Look for the July-August issue of the Jaguar Journal where you will find the IJF Registration form on the back of the Fly Sheet. You can also register online through JCNA: www.jcnaijf.com. A special weekend is planned with the “Tireside Chat”, Concours, Awards Banquet, Rally, Scenic Drive, and possibly a slalom. The museum now has seven Jaguars with race and rally histories coming for the museum’s fall and winter display.

Club Member Art On Display
In Downtown Gainesville GA Submitted by John Yates

On June 19th, Robbie and I met Roy and Linda Cleveland for dinner before going to Howard Bollinger's art show. Gainesville's town square is a happening place. We were surprised to see all the people enjoying the sidewalk restaurants that surround the park on a Thursday evening.

The Quinlan Visual Arts Center is a very impressive venue showcasing a wide variety of artist's works. Howard Bollinger's collection of whimsical art will be on display until August 9th. His style invites the viewer into each work to explore their imagination. I encourage you to enjoy a good meal and a pleasant evening in downtown Gainesville this summer.

Jag 'N' Friends' Picnic
Submitted by John Yates

We had 34 club members and friends at this year's picnic. Once again Smokejack catered the feast, and no one went away hungry. I enjoyed everyone's company so much that I didn't take any pictures. So, for all of you still in the witness protection program you are still safe.

We did have some leftovers. So, Robbie and I donated them to Art of Living missionaries. Their mission is serving art as medicine to special needs groups. Their 40-acre range is on Howell Bridge Road in Ballground Georgia (we drove by it on our drive to the ice-cream parlor). Check out their website for more information, artoflivingministries.com.

Proposed JCNA Series 1 E-Type Judge's Guide Available For Review

A draft of the proposed JCNA Series 1 E-Type Judge's Guide, which contains over 300 pictures detailing the many variations and production changes that the E-Type went through, is now available for review on the JCNA web site.

In an effort to make verifying items during a concours, this Guide follows the JCNA Score Sheet.

Headings are presented just as they are on the score sheet. Subheadings are also presented detailing items not specifically address on the score sheet but that must be judged during a concours. Due to file size, the Guide is presented in two parts, Exterior-Interior and Boot-Engine.

Please download these two files and review them on your computer.

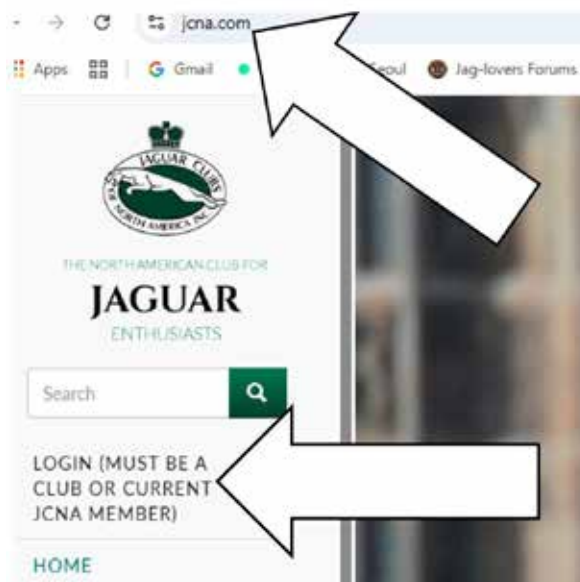

Any corrections comments or improved photos are to be sent to Steve Kennedy, skennedy@ecentral.com. Comments must be received by September 30th so that they can be reviewed and implemented.

This JCNA Series 1 E-Type Judge's Guide will be up for review and approval at the 2026 AGM.

The 2027 Jaguar Type 00 Electric Grand Tourer Is Gearing Up for Nurburgring

By: Mircea Panait, Autoevolution

Following a disastrous rebrand, Jaguar unleashed the Type 00 concept in December 2024 to mostly negative reception. Despite being criticized by Jaguar diehards, the most passionate of gearheads, and the most casual of car enthusiasts, the ailing marque continues testing the Type 00 in preparation for a 2026 reveal.

First spied on public roads in February 2025, the production model is presently gearing up for its first Nurburgring tests. Heavily camouflaged, the all-electric prototype looks very similar to Jaguar's pink and blue showpieces from December 2024. There is no rear window on either show cars, and the camo wrap on this prototype indicates that Jaguar is sticking to the original design.

The Leaping Cat of Coventry isn't alone in this proverbial madness. Remember the Polestar 4? A coupe-styled electric sport utility vehicle with Geely underpinnings, the poorly named crossover doesn't come with a rear window either. Instead, a roof-mounted camera – which is very noticeable to boot – will have to suffice.

Inspired by the ultra-expensive grand tourers from the good ol' days of coachbuilding, the 2027 Jaguar Type 00 features a hood that is more akin to a helipad in terms of surface area. Ridiculously long for a vehicle that does not rely on internal combustion for propulsion, the hood in question is complemented by a relatively upright fascia with more air intakes than the concept.

Equipped with massive wheels that are mounted with low-profile rubber, the first Jaguar based on the JEA platform has four doors instead of two for the concept. Pop-out door handles can also be seen, along with door-mounted side mirrors that emphasize width.

Although the concept vehicles have butterfly doors, the real thing is rocking conventional doors. While it's hard to estimate how much legroom and headroom the rear occupants will enjoy in the Type 00, the Rolls-Royce Spectre offers more of both. Jaguar won't match the ultra-lux ethos of the BMW-controlled marque, though. Beginning with its targeted starting price of approximately 100,000 pounds sterling, the Type 00 can only dream of matching the desirability of the much pricier Rolex. The first zero-emission Roller starts at just around £330,000 in the UK.

Be that as it may, there are some good things about the Type 00. From its 800-volt architecture to a sizable battery and something like 1,000 horsepower on deck, the forthcoming model promises to be that little better than the Rolls-Royce Spectre under the skin.

A near-production Type 00 will be revealed later in 2025 as Jaguar continues developing its most ambitious and controversial vehicle yet. Described as a four-door GT, the Type 00 allegedly needs as little as 15 minutes to replenish 200 miles (321 kilometers) of driving range from its purportedly massive battery.

Jaguar estimates up to 770 kilometers (478 miles) in the WLTP cycle, whereas the British automaker's EPA estimate is 430 miles (692 kilometers). By comparison, the Rolls-Royce Spectre tops 530 kilometers (329 miles) or 277 miles (446 kilometers), respectively.
